Chicago, IL (PRWEB) June 30, 2016 -- Endurance Vehicle Protection has debuted on the Crain's Fast 50 List of fastest-growing companies in the Chicagoland area, showing an immense amount of growth over the past five years. This is in addition to a recent placement on the Inc 5000 list of fastest-growing companies in the nation.

Each year, Crain's ranks the top fifty Chicago-based companies that have shown substantial growth and gains over a five-year period, and researches what attributes to the rapid growth and success of these companies. Since 2011, Endurance has seen a significant amount of growth – over 274% to be exact – virtually unheard of in the vehicle protection industry.

Endurance is a customer-driven company from top to bottom. By displaying dedication to our customer and providing them with world-class support, the Endurance brand stands out in the industry. With its commitment to excellent customer experience and superior product offering, Endurance offers drivers across the nation distinct value and competitive edge over direct and indirect competition.

"After more than ten years of being in business, we view this as a milestone in Endurance history but also a stepping stone to bigger things on the horizon" said CEO, Paul Chernawsky. "Endurance has benefited from the hard work of our employees, the keen business insight of senior management, and an offering of products that are unbeatable in the vehicle service contract industry. We see even more success in our future as the costs of car repairs continue to rise which results in drivers holding onto their vehicles longer."

President, Jordan Batt added, "It has taken a lot of hard work, some wise business decisions, and a team of people who are ready to give it their all every day, and look at what we have accomplished. I couldn't be more pleased with the direction our company is moving."

Both co-founders of Endurance, Jordan Batt and Paul Chernawsky, were also recently nominated for the Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year Award in 2016.
